

Anyone who has had the opportunity to drink water from a babbling brook or a mountain stream knows all too well the consequences of human encroachment. What you pack in to a remote wilderness area, one should pack out is the only way. These beauty Brook trout were caught by me behind Western Bay in one area that has not yet been pumped full of 21st century garbage and human encroachment.. If we don't limit our negative activities in these areas future generation will not be able to drink water from a babbling brook and enjoy a meal of non GMO TROUT, BERRIES and wild game. Think about it for a minute; the quality of these trout are world class! Utilizing smart conservation is what we have to do to maintain these eco-systems and water quality for future generations. Let's not get greedy here. We only have one earth!
